

PETER MIGUEL CAMEJO

for California
GOVERNOR

Vote Clean, Vote Green!

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Friday, July 14, 2006

Contact: Cres Vellucci, press secretary, 916.996-9170 Jo Chamberlain 650.346-3775

Peter Camejo accuses League of Women Voters of violating its own 'non-partisan' code if he is not invited to gubernatorial debates

SACRAMENTO – The League of Women Voters would violate its own “non-partisan” code by excluding from statewide debates all candidates for governor other than Democrat Phil Angelides and Republican Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger, gubernatorial candidate Peter Miguel Camejo alleged at a major news conference Friday at the League of Women Voters state office here.

The League is expected to make a decision about how to determine who will be invited to the debates this weekend.

In the letter, Camejo notes he was excluded from the 2002 debates, even though an ABC poll showed 69 percent of those polled wanted him in the debates. In the 2003 Recall Election, Camejo was allowed in the debates, and a poll by the San Francisco Chronicle found Camejo the “winner” of the those debates.

“I respectfully request, in the interest of fairness, that the League conduct a poll asking voters not who they may vote for in November, but who they want to see in the debates. I believe you will find that there will be massive support for my candidacy,” said Camejo in his letter to be released Friday.

“I urge you to consider the contradiction that our electoral winner-take-all system has created, and ask that the League maintain that nonpartisanship when it conducts any poll regarding the debates. To do otherwise...the League would, although unintentionally, work against the voters' desires,” he said.

On Wednesday, the Camejo campaign filed a Fair Political Practices Commission complaint alleging a poll by San Jose State University was, in fact, a “clear promotion of two partisan candidates” and violated campaign laws because the poll discriminated against four other ballot-qualified candidates who were not included in the polling.

-30-

Peter Camejo For Governor 2006

www.VoteCamejo.com 1710 Broadway #122 Sacramento, CA 95818